

Brian Van Hook
Associate Director of Small Business Development Center
Florida International University

Brian Van Hook is Associate Director of Small Business Development Center at FIU. Prior to joining Florida International University, Brian was Policy Director of the U.S. Senate Committee on Small Business & Entrepreneurship, where he oversaw research and legislative activities. Previously, he served as legislative assistant to U.S. Senator Mary Landrieu, advising her on issues related to disaster recovery, economic development, and international trade. A native of Louisiana, Brian has almost nine years of experience with disaster recovery and business continuity. He led efforts in securing millions of dollars in recovery funds and assistance for the Gulf Coast communities and businesses impacted by the 2005 hurricanes and the 2010 Gulf oil spill. Brian received his M.S. in International Affairs from Florida State University and his B.A. from Louisiana State University. He is a certified Business Continuity Professional.

