

Natalie Murray
Mrs. Utah America
Layton, Utah

Natalie Murray, a Layton resident, was crowned Mrs. Utah America in June of 2015 and hopes to use the title to promote, educate and motivate the community on the importance and ease of being prepared for any kind of emergency or disaster. Her goal is to instill a sense of personal responsibility within individuals in our communities. After going through some tough times during the economic crash of 2008, Natalie came to realize just how important it is to make sure to have proper food storage, savings and education in place before tough times occur. She is working closely with Be Ready Utah, and The American Red Cross to encourage individuals and families to be prepared through promoting events, speaking engagements, educational seminars and workshops. She is also serving as her neighborhood emergency preparedness specialist and hopes to become CERT certified in the near future.

Natalie also believes that education is important in preparedness and attends Weber State University where she is pursuing a BS degree in Exercise and Sports Science. She hopes to continue on to graduate school to become a physical therapist. She says: “Going back to school as a wife and a mother has been one of the most challenging things I have ever done but it has also been very empowering. I have learned that I can do hard things and feel that my education is helping me to be a better person all around...but especially as a wife and mother.”
