

Water quality and watershed issues are complex, multi-faceted, and at times contradictory. To establish and maintain effective stewardship requires cooperation between local municipal governments, stakeholder groups, and various management and regulatory agencies. Luckily, we've had the support of numerous individuals and organizations during the development of this Water Quality Stewardship Plan (WaQSP).

We are deeply indebted to Mayor Peter Corroon, the Salt Lake County Council, and the Salt Lake County Council of Governments (COG) for supporting environmental stewardship and the development of this Plan. Their leadership and dedication have made this collaborative planning effort possible. Additionally, the Jordan River Watershed Council has supported crucial stakeholder involvement, the Blue Ribbon Committee has provided keen insights and historic perspective, and State and Federal government agencies have been invaluable assets in identifying priority implementation opportunities. It is only with continued cooperation that we will collectively improve water quality and watershed health in Salt Lake County. We look forward to working together on implementation!
